What makes us unique?

My name is Danielle, I moved to Newport nearly two years ago to work on my studies at the University of South Wales. I am now months away from finishing my MA. Being someone who has grown up with a physical difference, I take pride and inspiration from making a difference to myself and those I work with. Earlier this year I published a book showcasing and promoting a children's positive understanding of diversity and inclusion and through my blog, I choose to use my own journey as a resource in which others can use to discover their own.

Fy enw yw Danielle, symudais i Gasnewydd bron i ddwy flynedd yn ôl i weithio ar fy astudiaethau ym Mhrifysgol De Cymru. Dim ond ychydig froedd sydd ar ôl i mi awr nes byddaf yn gorffen fy MA. Am fy mod yn rhywun sydd wedi byw gyda gwahaniaeth corfforol, rwy'n ymfalchïo ac yn cynryd ysbrydolaeth or ffath fy mod yn garued gwahaniaeth i mi fy hun ac i'r rheol rwy'n gwestio â nhw. Yn

Danielle Webb

Let's look at this week's story

Danielle Webb, who is 23 and lives with dwarfism, recently wrote a book and regularly visits schools to help educate others about her condition in a bid to stamp out prejudice. Danielle said that changing the minds of adults was difficult, so her focus was on educating children. The student, who is 3ft 11.5in (1.2m), said being called names and laughed at "just becomes our norm"; so her new book, 'Mummy, there's a new girl', tells the story of a girl who is picked on for her looks before a brave child looks past her differences and learns that size is no big deal.

Democracy

Danielle has used her voice to help educate others and stamp out prejudice. It is important that we listen so we can understand, learn about, and celebrate our differences.

Things to talk about at home ...

- > Why do you think Danielle decided to write the book? How do you think Danielle's book might help people to understand differences?
- > Discuss the phrase 'never judge a book by its cover'. What do you think this means and do you agree?
